COVID-19 cases in Coffee County jump to 750-plus over two week period

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The COVID-19 pandemic continues to paint a bleak picture for Coffee County and Alabama, according to the latest report given by Coffee County EMA director James Brown to Coffee County Commissioners.

During the Monday, Jan.

11, meeting for the Coffee County Commission, Brown said the numbers related to COVID-19 in the county are just unbelievable.

"I really take this personally," Brown said. "I really feel like I have failed to convince people that this thing is real...that I have failed to convince people to wear masks, social distance, and wash their hands."

As of Monday morning, Brown said there had been 757 new cases of COVID-19 diagnosed in Coffee County over the past 14 days. He added that deaths for the county were up by five over the last week.

Statistically, Brown said 10 percent of new cases of COVID send the infected person to the hospital.

"We have a 99-bed hospital [in Coffee County] that is either full or near full," Brown said. "Our hospital workers are over-tasked right now, and it is only going to get worse."

Across the state, Brown said ICU beds were 96 percent full as of Monday morning. In some areas, he said it was worse than that with some hospitals in the negative area for needed ICU beds.

"We need people to take this [COVID-19 pandemic] seriously," Brown stressed. "One of the things we can do is the vaccine."

With the Alabama Department of Public Health [ADPH] opening the vaccine up to all first responders and persons age 75 and older, Brown said it has become obvious that ADPH cannot handle it by itself.

"We need cooperation to get as many providers as we can for administering the vaccine," Brown said.

He said entities interested in being a vaccine provider could apply for an ImmPrint account through ADPH.

"We are going to have to come together as a group to help ADPH out," Brown said.

County engineer provides Rebuild Alabama Program's annual report

by Linda Hodge, Editor

During the Coffee County Commission meeting held Monday morning, Jan. 11, county engineer Marty Lentz provided the annual report for the county's Rebuild Alabama Act 2020 plan.

Lentz said the county first adopted the Rebuild Alabama Plan for Fiscal Year 2020 on Aug. 19, 2019. At that time, he said it was estimated the county would receive $832,000 in Rebuild Alabama funds.

Lentz said the plan in Coffee County was to resurface 11.87 miles of county roads. He said the estimated total cost for that was $1,365,000.

Lentz said commissioners agreed to commit $533,000 of county funds to accommodate the $832,000 in Rebuild Alabama funds to complete the plan.

The resurfacing projects included in the 2020 Rebuild Alabama Plan for Coffee County included County Road 723, 1.1 miles of roadway in the Heritage Heights Subdivision, County Road 200, and a portion of County Road 110.

Lentz said these projects were completed in 2020 for a total cost of $1,290,460. Actual revenue received from the Rebuild Alabama Act was $834,883; therefore, the county only had to use $457,577 of county funds to complete the plan.

"We came in a little under budget on this plan," Lentz

Coffee County receives funds through '21 ATRIP-II program

Governor Kay Ivey and the Alabama Department of Transportation on Tuesday Jan. 12, announced that more than $45 million in funding is being awarded to cities and counties for various road and bridge projects.

The funding is made available through the Alabama Transportation Rehabilitation and Improvement Program-II (ATRIP-II), a program created under the Rebuild Alabama Act. The Rebuild Alabama Act requires ATRIP-II to be an annual program setting aside a minimum of $30 million off the top of ALDOT's share of new gas tax revenue for projects of local interest on the state highway system.

"In Alabama, across our country and around the globe, we are all still working to get COVID-19 behind us, but here at home, we have not forgotten other priorities. Even as we are overcoming new challenges with the virus, we remain ever committed to making needed improvements to our infrastructure," Governor Ivey said. "I am proud that Rebuild Alabama continues making these investments possible in areas all across our state. Alabama continues to show progress and tangible results for the people of our state."

There were 27 projects selected for funding for a total of $45.99 million. Of those awarded projects, 20 were from cities and counties putting forward local funds, for a total of approximately $15.7 million. However, matching funds were not a requirement to be eligible.

Coffee County was among the project recipients for intersection improvements including re-aligning County Road 239 and County Road 114 to intersect with Alabama Highway 167 at right angles. The total cost for this project is said to be $1,793,585 with $1,614,226.50 in ATRIP funds and $179,358.50 in local funds.

The projects were selected by the ATRIP-II Committee. It is anticipated that a number of projects will be under contract during the 2021 fiscal year, however all projects are required to move forward within two years of the awarding of funds.

The accident occurred on Alabama Highway 189, ten miles south of Elba and was investigated by Alabama State Troopers.

Elba's code enforcement officer says 17 homes purchased so far in ongoing FEMA flood buyout project from 2015 December flood

by Linda Hodge, Editor

During the Elba City Council meeting Monday evening, Jan. 11, city code enforcement officer Bryson Dear provided an update to council members regarding the FEMA flood buyout project ongoing in Elba.

Since starting the buyout process of homes for this project, Dear said the city had purchased a total of 17 properties thus far. He said eight of those homes had been completely demolished with six done by city employees and two by contractor.

"We currently have four more [homes] slated to be demolished by the contractor," Dear said. "These are one with asbestos that require abatement."

Also, he said this included a larger home on Smith Avenue that he would prefer to give to the contractor to demolish rather than city crews due to the size of the property and the equipment needed to complete the project.

Dear said of the 17 purchased that would leave five more homes to be demolished by city crews as the time allows. He said if time became an issue that the contractor would be utilized on these as well, but only if necessary.

Of all property owners contacted thus far in the overall FEMA project, Dear said there had been 12 formal withdrawals from the project, and there had been six no responses.

He said the city recently sent out two purchase offers from the original group in the project. He said these were behind due to varying issues. Also, he said closing was completed last week on another home from original group that had been behind due to tenant issues.

Dear said the project has moved to the fourth group in the buyout, and he had 11 voluntary transaction agreements from that group. He said these agreements would allow the city to move forward with title searches, etc.

"We should see quite a bit happening in next few weeks to move this project along," Dear said to council members.

Council member Jane Brunson asked Dear to make a guess on a timeframe of how long this timeframe could potentially continue due to the processes and how long money holds out. Dear said it could potentially be another year or so, if the funds hold out for the project.

City Clerk provides departmental updates to Elba City Council members

Elba City Clerk Sally Bane reported Monday evening, Jan. 11, to council members that the Elba Public Library had received a $10,000 LSTA [Library Services and Technology Act] grant.

Bane said library director Jennifer Amlong intends to utilize these grant funds to improve or create new library areas for books. Among the plans are to increase the large print books selection, and to create a Manga books section.

Bane reported that Amlong said Manga books are similar to comic books, and these type reading materials are very popular with younger readers currently. It is the hope that adding a Manga books section to the library would bring in more of the younger audience to the library.

The city clerk also reported that the senior citizens center is excited to start the Senior Community Employment Program through SARCOA. Bane said this program allows SARCOA to employ a senior citizen for 19.7 hours per week, this would be beneficial to not only the senior center but also to the person hired.

Bane said the sewer project seems to be moving along 'right on course' with a projected completion date of July. As for the street department, she said that crew had been busy coordinating efforts for the demo of FEMA project houses.

For the recreation department, Bane said basketball season is in full swing with Elba's games being held at the high school gymnasium. She said the city is very grateful to Elba City Schools for use of its gym. Also, she said Elba is set to host the district basketball tournament this year for boys age 9-10 and boys age 11-12.

Elba mayor pleased to announce over $14,000 in funds collected on city's unsafe property demolitions

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Mayor Tom Maddox credited code enforcement officer Bryson Dear with 'a job well done' in that he said Dear's efforts to recoup funds the city incurred for the demo of two properties that had been deemed unsafe prior to Dear coming on board with the city.

While discussing the city's financials, Mayor Maddox said Dear's efforts had benefitted the city in that $14,371.49 had been collected through the county revenue commissioner's office via liens on two properties they city had demolished some time back.

Dear said the two properties were 941 Claxton Avenue and 856 Troy Highway. He said those properties were torn down prior to him coming to work for the city, but the council had voted to place a lien on the properties for all fees incurred by the city through the demolition process.

He said those liens had been paid this past tax season when someone paid the property taxes on the two properties.

Dear said it was his understanding that it is quite unusual to actually recoup these type costs, but the process had been successful on these two accounts.

The council thanked Dear for his work.

"The secret of change is to focus all of your energy, not on fighting the old, but on building the new." - Socrates

Stripe no longer processing Trump campaign payments, Facebook, Twitter and several others cutting him off, 2022 world known golf tournament at Trump golf course cancelled, banks refusing to do business with his companies, the list goes on and on. All that sounds like the end of the political world for Donald Trump, and he will be fighting just to survive in a couple of weeks. However, political fortunes are often lost and just as quickly rebound. No one can accurately predict which will happen in this case.

Wednesday the House of Representatives is probably going to again vote for the impeachment of President Trump. Our readers will probably know the answer to that before reading this week's column. We of course don't approve of the events of last Wednesday, nor the comments of many politicians leading up to the disaster. However, we are wrestling with "should they or should they not" proceed with this action. There is no way the process will move fast enough to actually remove him from the White House before January 20th. Therefore, the only immediate results of an impeachment vote would be to further anger a large segment of the American public and widen the divide between the pro-Trump group and the rest of America. There may be some positive long term benefits from such an action, but no one really knows what that would be.

Four years ago we privately formed the thoughts that Donald Trump's reign as the supreme leader of our beloved United States would spawn something akin to what we are seeing in recent weeks. It shined through in his words, words that resonated with millions of flustered American citizens and actually helped him win the presidency. Regretfully that gut feeling was correct. We were also convinced that he would put his brand on government bank accounts - borrow, borrow, borrow. That also happened but in fairness to all involved, much (or most) of that deficit spending would have happened regardless of who was president. No one could have predicted, nor stopped COVID-19, once it was recognized as the killer bug that would take thousands of lives and decimate the world's economy.

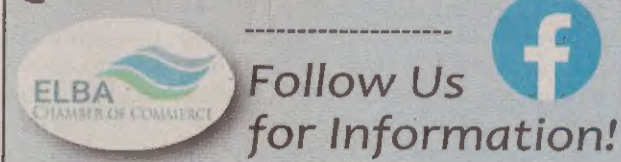

The recent violence in Washington D.C. and to a lesser degree, across the nation, right now is all on Trump's back with descriptions of a "dispot", even so history will probably paint a picture of a country already experiencing tons of unrest, uncertainty about the future, and the individuals probable inability to adapt to, and survive, these unknowns. Such emotions on such a large scale only needed a single match to explode and Donald Trump turned out to be that match. However, before tomorrow's history writers take over and mold public opinion, right now is not a good time to be a frontline Trump disciple. Just ask presidential hopefuls, Senators Ted Cruz or Josh Hawley - especially first term Josh Hawley who could actually be drummed out of office by his (former) arch supporters.

106 House Republicans backed Trump's bid to overturn the election in spite of the afternoon's Washington D.C. riot. So don't think it is now over or will be over when Biden is sworn in on January 20th.

Remember the Tea Party of several years ago? Their support group ballooned across the nation, with followers expressing frustrations largely stemming from their own economic position. Many of those same people, now mostly marching under the QAnon banner, and/or opinions were addressed by Donald Trump in his buildup to election as president four years ago. Their group grew as more and more people, including many of the wealthy, felt the insecurity spawned by the uncertainty of the future. During the 2016 elections, openly pro-Trump supporters had great success on election day. That followed through the 2020 election. Now some of that crowd is disavowing any connection to the president in hopes of surviving the growing "Trump stigma" during future elections.

Be safe, wash your hands, wear your mask, social distance, - and take the shots!

Coffee County Commissioner calls on state to eliminate red tape and increase COVID-19 vaccine distribution

Submitted by Jimmy E. Jones

Now is the time for action. With over 226,000 doses of vaccine in our state and only 42,800 given, we need to increase our rate of delivery now! 18.9% of doses delivered over the 3 weeks is unacceptable. Our people need this vaccine. We need this vaccine to save lives and get our economy back to normal. Our people demand better from us. When the Alabama Department of Public Health [ADPH] puts out a toll free number to make an appointment for those over 75 years of age, and it receives 1.1 million calls the first 24 hours, we can clearly see how desperate people are to obtain this vaccine.

I call on ADPH and the State of Alabama to use all means necessary to ensure we distribute the COVID-19 vaccines as soon as possible. This may take some out-of-the-box thinking by our directors of public health, but we should have distribution locations in accessible areas. We should maximize our use of volunteers and get these shots in people's arms. If we need to waive qualifications to allow more people to be able to give shots, then let's do it. If we need to call up the National Guard, to help with distribution and paperwork, let's do it. If we need drive through clinics, then let's do it. The vaccines should not be held up by bureaucratic red tape, unnecessary paperwork, arcane restrictions, and slow delivery methods. We are in a war with this virus and we are not going to win it by using a playbook designed to restrict our actions.

Commissioner

As an elected official, I stand ready to work with the State and ADPH in organizing our community into a vaccine task force. We need every doctor's office to apply to be providers of this vaccine and to offer this to their patients. We need the hospital to offer vaccines. Additionally, we need businesses to apply to be providers so they can get their own vaccine and give it to their employees. We are in this fight together and we can only defeat this common enemy if our government will lead, and our people will cooperate.

We the people are ready for action and we are willing to help, but we require the cooperation and assistance of the public health system. We need them ready and willing to use all the resources that we can muster together. With community action and government cooperation we can do this. We need action NOW!

Brown said he had been reaching out to local municipalities asking those entities to consider applying for an ImmPrint account to be able to help with the vaccines. Also, he said he had reached out to some larger industries within the county for the same.

Overall, Brown said the more help that could be provided to ADPH the better.

Commissioners Jimmy Jones said he had spoken with leaders at Medical Center Enterprise and Sessions Peanut Company in Enterprise, and they are willing to help in any way possible.

Commission chairman Dean Smith encouraged commissioners to think over the matter so they too could discuss at their next work session ways to help also.

Coffee County E911 chairman Dean Smith added to Brown's report saying that Enterprise Rescue had been doing a phenomenal job in covering the county. He said what many people may not realize is that patient transfers right now could include going to Birmingham, Pensacola, etc.

Blair said the longer transfers means having a unit out of service for sometimes up to 8 hours per day for new emergencies, and that requires the EMS folks to scramble to find ways to cover during those times. He said a majority of this too is due to COVID.

Blair said he knows of at least one instance where

From Alabama Dept. of Public Health: COVID-19 vaccine remains limited, continued patience is urged as demand is great

The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) knows that many Alabamians are ready to receive the COVID-19 vaccine and appreciates the patience of all citizens during this time.

The demand for COVID-19 vaccine continues to exceed supply as Alabama has more than 326,000 healthcare workers and nearly 350,000 people who qualify for a vaccine because they are 75 years old and older. Priority access to vaccine cannot be granted to other groups of people as ADPH follows the recommendations of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP) for the allocation of over a 72-hour period, the local EMS provider received over 100 calls for assistance.

"We have a crisis situation there too," Blair said regarding emergency medical services.

While trying to address the needs of Alabamians in the currently identified groups, ADPH is working to improve COVID-19 vaccine scheduling capabilities by creating an online registration portal in addition to its toll-free hotline. On January 8, ADPH announced that appointments are being taken for specified groups to receive COVID-19 vaccine at county health departments beginning January 18 through a statewide COVID-19 Vaccine Scheduling Hotline.

The hotline continues to receive a massive volume of calls, with more than 1.1 million calls received in its first day of operation. ADPH asks the public not to call this appointment line to schedule a vaccine UNLESS they are in an eligible group - healthcare workers, people age 75 and older, law enforcement officers or firefighters. The public cannot schedule vaccine appointments by calling hospitals directly and are urged not to tie up hospital telephone lines.

To schedule an appointment for the free COVID-19 vaccination, individuals may call the ADPH toll-free phone number at 1-855-566-5333. Telephone calls are answered from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. seven days a week.

Vaccination locations can be viewed at this link, <https://go.usa.gov/xARKp> and additional specific information, such as what to bring and what to wear, will be provided when appointments are made.

If wanting to be vaccinated at sites other than a county health department, such as a private provider, individuals should contact those sites directly.

Why Have a Public Viewing?

As the family members of a recently deceased loved one, you are under no obligation to have a public viewing. Some families will make the decision to keep the casket closed and restrict the grieving process to just a private funeral or interment service.

With that said, there is a reason why public viewings have for so long been part of many cultural, ethnic, and religious traditions. Though they are not always appropriate - especially if the body of the deceased has undergone some form of trauma - a public viewing can be an important way to facilitate the grieving process.

A public viewing is, above all else, profoundly visual. It allows a chance for friends and family members to see with their own eyes a final glimpse of the deceased - something that can provide closure. A public viewing is an important way to help mourners gain acceptance - yes, this beloved friend or family member has passed on, and this passing is final.

A public viewing can have special merit as far as children are concerned. For children who have not experienced loss or attended memorial services before, a public viewing can be a meaningful way for parents or grandparents to explain what has happened and to help them grasp its weightiness and its gravity. Of course, a prerequisite for this is that proper explanation is offered.

Finally, public viewings are significant for loved ones who may not have seen the deceased in some time. If you just saw the deceased yesterday, in full robust health, you may feel more comfortable skipping the viewing, remembering him or her as you saw them in life; not everyone will have that luxury, though, and many friends and family members will covet a chance to say one last goodbye.

He said the emphasis to the report was that the Rebuild Alabama project in 2020 for Coffee County went as planned, and the county was able to resurface just under 12 miles of county roads with the funds provided by the Rebuild Alabama Act.

The county engineer had one other item to present to commissioners during Monday's meeting. He said he had received the State Local Disaster Agreement provided by FEMA identifying the cost share for the Hurricane Sally disaster.

Lentz said the cost share for this agreement would be 75 percent federal, 12.5 percent state, and 12.5 percent county. He asked commissioners to approve a motion authorizing the chairman to sign the agreement, and his request was approved by a unanimous vote of commissioners.

Cuzin Lou Lou's Tales from Yonder

Editor's Note: Cuzin Lou Lou's comments are best delivered using your biggest Southern drawl, lol!

Cuzin Lou Lou offers a tale of two restaurants in COVID-19 times this week.

The past two Saturday evenings, Cuzin Lou Lou and Sister ventured out to a couple of their favorite restaurants, and while the food was good at both, the COVID-19 atmosphere left mixed emotions.

Saturday #1 the restaurant seemed to be oblivious to social distancing and other measures that are supposed to be in place for these times. Every table in the restaurant was being utilized with no partitions of any type between the differing table parties in the main dining room. Also, it was obvious to Lou Lou that sanitizing of the salt and pepper shakers was not taking place between guests because she got an 'icky' salt shaker, and she almost had a panic attack!

To say the least, Saturday #1 became an eat, get done, and get gone experience for Lou Lou and Sister!

Upon exiting the building, Sister and Lou Lou each expressed their disappointment in the restaurant's owners for not taking more precautions for the safety of their guests. They agreed to not return to said restaurant any time soon simply because of how uncomfortable they were this particular evening.

Fast forward to Saturday #2, and well, Lou Lou was planning to cook at home. She didn't want to take any chances after the previous week's scare. However, Sister wanted a steak, and it was just too cold for Lou Lou to light up the grill and endure the shivers the cold would send through her body.

So...new direction they ventured to a longtime favorite place for steak. This time Papa came along for the food - translation: there was no football game on the tube to keep his attention, so, an outing with Lou Lou and Sister was his next best option!

The gang arrived at the restaurant, and the atmosphere was calming almost immediately. The staff here was taking extra time to be sure to properly social distance guests.

At the table, when Sister asked for salt and pepper [because shakers were not on the table], the waitress went and retrieved some, and Lou Lou actually witnessed the waitress sanitize the shakers before placing them on the table.

Long story, short...the food was enjoyable at each restaurant; however, the food was enjoyed more on Saturday #2 because the staff of the restaurant was attentive to the precautions in place due to the COVID-19 pandemic. This restaurant made its customers feel 'at ease' while dining, and that is something to take into consideration during these strange times.

Truthfully, with the spread of the virus increasing lately, take out from restaurants is most likely the better choice, but some nights, the Yonder gang just wants to sit back, relax, and be pampered a bit at supertime! But, it needs to be a restaurant like the one from Saturday #2; otherwise, Lou Lou will fire up the grill and battle the cold for future meals!

Until next time...Keep Smiling and God Bless! Distance, Sanitize, & Mask!

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

It's a good thing the first week back from the long holiday break was only three days for our grandson Lawson, because his teacher reported that on one day she had to give him a little nudge to wake him up from an early afternoon nap. We all stayed up late when school was out back in our days and I know he did the same. However, after twenty-one straight days out of school I'm sure just getting up was hard, much less staying awake after lunch.

For what it is worth....

 The Elba Tigers continued their season long victory drought last week with losses to Zion Chapel and Opp, but went down fighting in both games and I'm convinced that once they hang a 'W' on their side of the ledger they will catch fire and close the season with a bang. Elba had really bad opening quarters in both losses and had to try and play catch-up the rest of the game, but never quit fighting and actually had a chance to pull off the upset of the season against undefeated Opp. One night soon the Tigers are going to play four good quarters and discover for themselves just how good they can be.

 The Elba Lady Tigers rolled to two wins and won their area opener, but saw the week end on a low note when the game against Opp was stopped in the third quarter after an on-court incident resulted in the ejection of three players from both teams. The Lady Tigers were in complete command and headed for another easy win when the incident occurred, and unfortunately the ejections will leave the team two starters short for its next two games, which are both area contests. I know the girls are all upset about their actions, but the key will be to learn from their mistakes and come back older, wiser and better people and teammates.

 The week back wasn't a busy one for the teams in the area, but it was a big one for two of the teams as both Zion Chapel and Kinston claimed big wins. The Rebels rolled to their third straight win over Elba to claim an area win, while the Bulldogs posted two area wins to jump atop the area standings. The biggest surprise to me as the Kinston Lady Bulldogs opening area play 0-2 after losses to Samson and Pleasant Home. The Lady Bulldogs developed into a very good team a year ago and were thought to be a team to beat this season, but are now winless after the opening week of area play, which makes the rest of the games must win contests.

 The NCAA turned the state of Indiana into the college basketball capital of the nation last week when it announced the entire 2021 men's basketball tournament would be held in and around the city of Indianapolis. The so-called 'Indianapolis Bubble' will include six locations for the 68-team event, with four venues in the city, one in Bloomington (55 miles away) and one in West Lafayette (65 miles away). It was reported that it would take 2,500 hotel rooms for the teams, staff and media, and that the teams would be housed on their own floors in the hotels, as well as being separated from others teams and individuals for meals, meetings and practices. The tournament festivities will begin on March 14 with the selection show, while games will begin on March 16 and wrap up with the championship game on April 5. While ticket sales will be determined as late as possible, based upon health recommendations, family members of players and coaches will be allowed to attend the games. The tournament is estimated to have an economic impact of $100 million on the city, which will certainly make all the work well worth the price. The men's division 2 and division 3 national tournaments were already scheduled to be played in Indiana, which will only add to the spectacle that will never be forgotten.

Drop area openerTigers ambushed by Rebels 50-41

The Elba Tigers saw a determined fourth quarter rally bog down at the foul line as they hit only 3 of 8 free throws in the final stanza in a 50-41 area loss to the Zion Chapel Rebels, Friday night at Enterprise State Community College.

The Rebels Bryce Watson poured in nine first quarter points as Zion Chapel raced out to an early 15-3 lead, and while the Tigers Jacquez Prince did wake up the Elba offense in the second quarter with seven points, the Rebels never lost command and carried a 24-14 lead in at intermission.

Watson added seven points in the third quarter as Zion Chapel stretched its lead to 38-24. However, the Tigers battled until the final horn as Prince added a pair of 3-pointers to spark a Tiger rally that fell short as they hit only 3 of 8 fourth quarter free throws, while the Rebels connected on 8 of 11 free throw opportunities.

Jacquez Prince scored 18 points and Chrystyle Caldwell added 10, while Bryce Watson poured in 22 points and Joshua Finger added 11 for the Rebels.

Z.C. (50): Watson 22, Finger 11, Horstman 5, Adair 1, Kelley 5, McDaniel 4, Boothe 2.

Elba (41): Hill 7, Burks 1, Harrison 4, Prince 18, Coleman 1, Caldwell 10.

Tiger rally falls shortElba drops battle with Bobcats 41-38

The Elba Tigers rallied from a 15-point second quarter deficit to pull within one point with two minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, but saw a last-second three-point try bounce off the rim as the Tigers lost to the undefeated Opp Bobcats 41-38, in Elba.

Opp took advantage of three first quarter three-pointers to race out to an 11-0 lead and opened up a late 16-2 advantage before Elba's Collin Harrison drained a long three-pointer at the buzzer to pull the Tigers within 16-5.

The Bobcats fourth three-pointer of the half pushed their lead to 21-6 midway through the second quarter and it appeared the Tigers were headed for a long afternoon. However, a three-pointer by Byron Burks and a dunk by Chrystyle Caldwell sparked a 9-2 Elba rally as the Tigers cut the Opp lead to 22-15 at intermission.

Opp pushed its lead back up to eight points at 26-18 midway through the third quarter, but two quick three-pointers by Collin Harrison chopped the Bobcats lead to 26-24, and after a long three-pointer by Byron Burks the Tigers headed into the final stanza trailing 32-29.

Opp pushed its lead to 34-29 early in the fourth quarter. However, Collin Harrison continued to bomb away from behind the arc and after his second three-pointer of the stanza the Tigers were within 36-35 with 2:16 left on the clock. The Bobcats extended their lead to 41-35 with 1:33 remaining, but Byron Burks drained a three-pointer to pull the Tigers within 41-38, and after a steal at midcourt, Harrison had a chance to tie the score, only to see a shot from just inside the half court stripe bounce off the rim as the Bobcats escaped with the 41-38 win.

Collin Harrison scored 17 points to lead Elba, while Byron Burks added 12, Chrystyle Caldwell 7 and Trent Hamilton 2.

The Elba Lady Tigers tipped off area play Friday night with a big 49-13 win over the Zion Chapel Lady Rebels, in a game played at Enterprise State Community College.

The Lady Tigers roared out to a 15-0 lead midway through the first quarter and never slowed down as Breanna Sanders and Nina Williams combined for 15 points to put Elba on top 23-3 heading into the second stanza. Makinna Gray scored four points in the second quarter to help the Lady Tigers push their lead to 31-5 at the half, and Williams added seven more points in the third quarter as Elba's lead grew to 46-9 before the reserves came in and mopped up the lopsided area win.

Nina Williams scored 14 points and Breanna Sanders added 12 to lead Elba.

Elba (49): Baker 8, A. Chism 3, Williams 14, Tinsley 2, J. Gray 2, Sanders 12, Purvis 2, M. Gray 6.

Elba Lady Tigers stop Opp 43-22

The Elba Lady Tigers used a 14-0 run early in the second quarter to blow the game open and claimed their second win of the week Saturday afternoon with a 43-22 win over the Opp Lady Bobcats, in a game stopped in the third quarter after an on-court incident resulted in an extended delay and the ejection of three players from both teams.

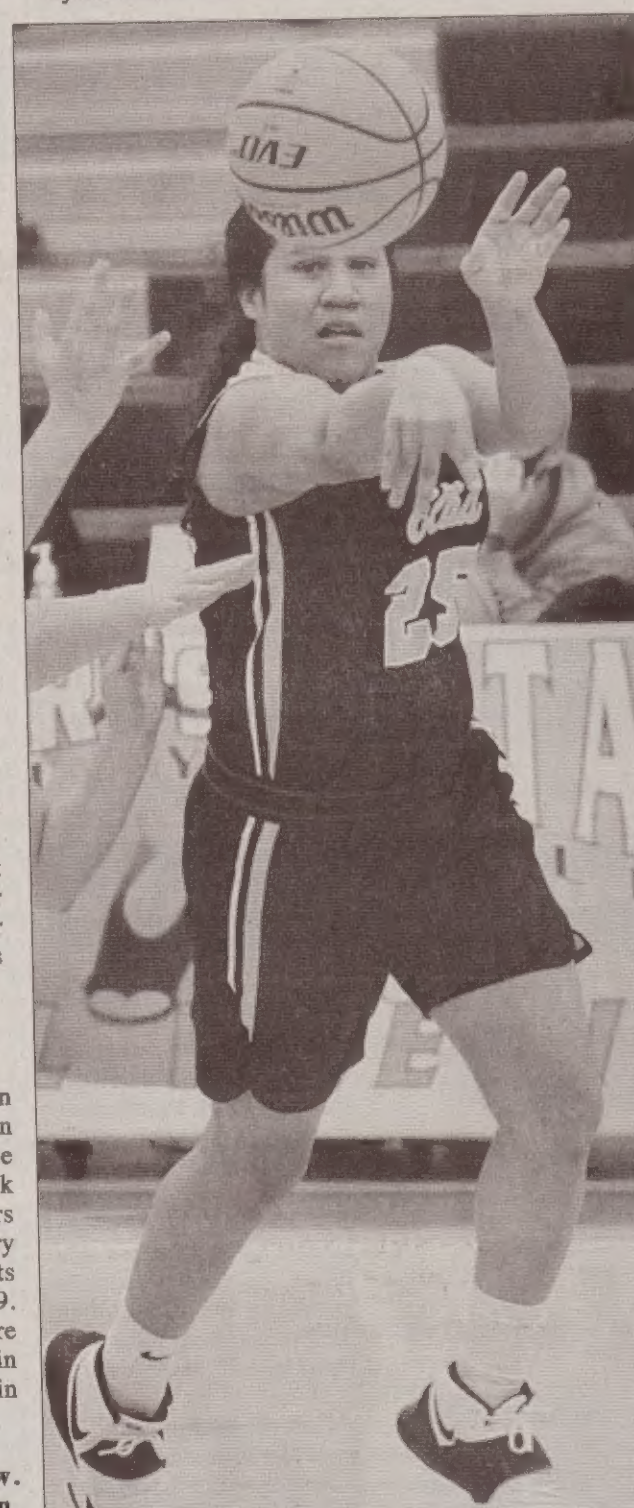

Opp scored first to grab an early 2-0 lead, but Elba's Jaylen Baker sparked a 9-0 run that erased the early deficit and put the Lady Tigers on top 9-2. The Lady Bobcats pulled within 16-9 late in the stanza. However, the Lady Tigers carried an 18-9 lead into the second quarter after a last-second basket by Baker, and then sparked by the play of Jayla Gray and Breanna Sanders went on a 14-0 run to open up a big 32-9 lead midway through the stanza.

Elba carried a commanding 36-16 lead in at the half, and despite a pair of three-pointers by the Lady Bobcats never lost command, and when Baker connected on three of four free-throw opportunities on consecutive trips down the court the Lady Tigers owned a comfortable 43-22 lead when the game was halted.

Jaylen Baker scored 19 points to lead Elba and Nina Williams added 11, while Breanna Sanders scored 6, Jayla Gray 5, Yada Caldwell 2 and Makinna Gray 2.

Elba Historic Committee grateful for donations to allow improvements at two historical landmarks

The Elba Historic Preservation Committee extends thanks to several individuals and organizations that made it possible for the roof to be replaced on the Folsom Home, located on Putnam Street in Elba.

This historical landmark was the birthplace of former Alabama Governor Jim Folsom. It was moved to downtown Elba several years ago to sit as a historical landmark for all to enjoy seeing.

Last year, the Elba

Historic Preservation Committee sought help in getting the roof repaired on the building to keep it alive as a landmark.

"We were able to get a great deal done with the help of several individuals and organizations," said Jean Helms, a member of the committee.

She said the roof repair to the Folsom home was made possible via an Alabama Department of Tourism Grant secured by Senator Jimmy Holley, along with funds from the Coffee County Commissioner [via the help of Commissioner Dean Smith], and Woodmen of the World Chapter 1932.

These funds also allowed for some front porch work to be completed on the home to accommodate the roof repair.

Helms said the local historians also are grateful for donations made to allow for some improvements to the old Coffee County Jail, also located on Putnam Street in Elba [next to the Folsom Birthplace]. She said seven doors recently were installed to the old jail building.

These doors were built and donated by Dorsey Trailers, thanks to Jeff Pitts.

Also, the doors were installed by Woodmen of the World.

Helms said the historic committee has additional plans for improvements to the old jail building, and hopefully that work can be done in the near future.

ASPIRE 2030 helping ESCC plan for future

Enterprise State Community College is planning for the future with its ASPIRE 2030 plan.

ASPIRE (Achieving Systemwide Potential through Increased Resources and Engagement) 2030 was established by ACCS Chancellor Jimmy Baker to inspire deeper community engagement during the strategic planning process for capital improvement projects at Alabama community colleges. The new initiative was announced after Alabama lawmakers approved a $1.2 billion public school bond issue for capital improvement projects. ACCS allotted $120 million to be divided among the state's community colleges.

As part of the development of College's plan that was officially submitted on Dec. 9, ESCC performed a self-analysis to identify potential capital improvement projects that would best affect the community. ESCC's plan delved into the areas of focus of the College — people, programs, facilities and community — and explored how community development goes hand in hand with economic and workforce development, leading to the development of possible projects that could increase ESCC's influence in its local communities.

The self-analysis analysis was completed by not only internal stakeholders to the College but also stakeholders through the College's External Committee. ESCC committees met for the first time virtually to discuss ASPIRE 2030 and the College on July 23.

"We spent countless hours meeting with representatives from the communities we serve over these past few months," ESCC President Matt Rodgers said. "Together, we delved deep into the impact our College already has on the community and how we can provide more of an impact in certain areas."

The External Committee included representatives of local and state government, local K-12 education systems, higher education, business and industry, the local non-profit sector and economic development who provided feedback on potential needs, such as workforce needs, in sectors locally and statewide.

One such representative, Vice Chairman of Friends of Fort Rucker Floyd E. Rodgers, called the development of the College's ASPIRE plan a "collaborative effort."

"Enterprise State Community College is a valuable part of our community, providing essential educational opportunities to a diverse population," he said. "The ASPIRE process was an effective collaborative effort that helped stakeholders identify how ESCC can further develop and expand opportunities for our community, which includes the Army Aviation Center of Excellence and Fort Rucker."

"ESCC provides necessary educational opportunities for the Soldiers and family members stationed at Fort Rucker. In addition, the plan further benefits the Alabama Aviation College as it supports the aviation training mission at Fort Rucker by providing educated/trained personnel in support of the contractor managed aircraft maintenance requirement."

Rodgers said the development of ESCC's ASPIRE 2030 plan opened a new door for impactful conversations between ESCC and local communities.

"I am proud of this plan, and I am proud of the work of our faculty, staff and everyone else involved in its creation," Rodgers said. "I'm especially thankful for the work of Andrew Davis and Debbie McCollough, who put together our complete ASPIRE 2030 plan for submission."

"This plan forced us to reach out to so many different people. I believe that everyone who participated learned something. I am excited to see what this process has already done for our College, and I cannot wait to see where the projects we've come up with in our plan will take us in the future."

PASTOR'S CORNER

by Will Jordan, Pastor

Newbia Baptist Church • 3819 County Rd 330, Elba

What a troubling year 2021 has started out to be. The recent disturbance at the United States Capitol was a sad day for America. The loss of human life is never a pleasant occurrence; and I certainly hope that all Americans will join me in prayers for all those affected by this action.

Government officials, law enforcement and clergy are trying to formulate ways of dealing with this event so that we can move forward peacefully. Though I am heavy-hearted, as most of you are; through much prayer, I have realized that now is not the time to point fingers at who is right or wrong concerning this disturbance. It is, however, a time to heal. Jesus tells us in Mark 3: 24 & 25 – "If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. And if a house is divided against itself, that house cannot stand."

I fear we are experiencing the untoward effects of not following both these warnings from our Christ. Not only are we experiencing divisiveness in our nation, but we are experiencing it in our personal lives.

Unfortunately, we are becoming estranged from friends and families because of differences in political views. Certainly, this is not good, but the Bible gives us much wonderful Scripture, that if we read and follow, will make this world, our nation, and our personal relationships better.

One particular Scripture stands out to me. In John 16: 33, Jesus reminds us that; "These things I have spoken to you, that in Me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

This is a good reminder that this world is temporal and will pass away, along with all its problems. The kingdom of God, however, is eternal. Please join me in the hope of heaven.

 Pastor Will Jordan of Newbia Baptist Church will be writing the Pastor's Corner column for the month of January.*

Judgment Tempered by Love

Andrew was a regular in a men's Bible study I led. But his participation could be problematic at times. Whenever our text dealt with judgment, Andrew questioned God's actions. He had trouble with Jesus' words about a final separation of saved and wicked. When the group discussed various ethical issues, Andrew was unfailingly lenient. One day Andrew finally told us the reason for his difficulty. His father had been a judgmental, controlling person. The man was diately end the contact. The public is encouraged to report such calls to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Hotline at 1-800-392-5658 or via email to ConstituentAffairs@AlabamaAG.gov.

so mean-spirited that none of his three children went to his funeral! I watched the group as Andrew bared his soul to them. Where frustration had been, compassion began to blossom. Andrew had turned away from a man who caused his family only pain. Israel had no such excuse: God was a loving Father whose judgment was tempered with love. What human failures continue to color your experience of your loving heavenly Father? — C.R.B.
